CAL DISCOVERIES TRAVEL

Dear Alumni and Friends of Cal,

Join us on a fascinating journey to Charleston, one of the U.S. South's most beloved cities. To really get to know Charleston, we'll explore its African American history and learn about the Gullah Geechee community, descendants of the enslaved people of West and Central Africa brought to the United States. We'll tour the International African American Museum to learn how enslaved communities have influenced our lives today. On visits to the McLeod Plantation Historic Site and Boone Hall Plantation, we'll learn about the contributions of the enslaved men, women, and children who lived there.

Observe the artistic traditions of the Gullah Geechee at the Gibbes Museum of Art, where you will examine the exquisite sweetgrass baskets of internationally recognized artisan Mary Jackson and the vibrant paintings of Jonathan Green. Included meals and an elective cooking class (at an additional cost) showcase the region's delicious culinary heritage.

A poignant highlight of the program is a visit to Mother Emanuel AME Church, which experienced tragedy at the hands of a shooter in 2015. Learn about the church, its role in the community, and its history from a longtime member of the congregation.

This exceptional program has been thoughtfully designed with educational enrichment from expert guides and lecturers. It also offers the ease and value of group travel with plentiful opportunities for independent exploration.

This cultural journey will reveal the many facets of Charleston and its complex history. Guarantee your spot by making your reservation today!

Go Bears!

Activity Level 2 |

What to expect: These trips often travel by motor coach, ship, or train. Touring days may include full-day motor coach excursions or extended periods of standing and walking during city tours, museum visits, and/or outdoor activities. Travelers should be able to board transportation, walk over sometimes-uneven terrain, and climb a few flights of stairs, occasionally without handrails or assistance. Elevators are not always available. Outings last two to four hours most days.

Suitable for: Travelers who are able to comfortably walk two to four miles, or 4,600–6,900 steps, each day.

CAA is a self-funded non-profit organization that relies on donations to provide programs and services that support students, alumni, and the University. To make a gift, please visit alumni.berkeley.edu/donate. Thank you for choosing CAA as the recipient of your generosity.

One traveler per room, whether an alum or friend, must be a current Cal Alumni Association member at the time of departure to participate in Cal Discoveries Travel offerings. Payment of $60 for seniors 65 years and over and $75 for others establishes a membership with all Association benefits. Memberships are for individuals only, and are non-refundable and non-transferable. A traveling pair and their children under 21 years of age may travel on one membership. Please enroll online at alumni.berkeley.edu/join.

McLeod Plantation Historic Site

Discovery begins here

Founded in 1670, Charleston's natural harbor led the city to becoming a wealthy port, trading sea cotton, indigo, rice, and grievously, an estimated 200,000 enslaved Africans. A complex, vibrant city evolved from this painful chapter of history. Many of the enslaved living in the Charleston area formed what we know today as the Gullah Geechee community, whose many artistic, culinary, and other cultural contributions created the unique and dynamic city of Charleston.

Day 4 | Charleston

AHI Connects | Mother Emanuel AME Church: Private Visit & Lecture. Founded in 1816, Mother Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church is one of oldest African American churches in the U.S. It has been at the forefront of civil rights activism since its founding and has welcomed speakers such as Booker T. Washington and Martin Luther King Jr. It also has known its share of tragedy. In 2015, nine members of the congregation's Bible study group were killed by a white supremacist. Lee Bennett Jr., church historian and longtime member, will delve into the story of this remarkable church.

Aiken-Rhett House. Get intriguing insights into the everyday life of enslaved people in an urban setting at this 19th-century townhouse. Its most prominent resident was William Aiken Jr., who was South Carolina's governor from 1844 to 1846. He also was a rice plantation owner and one of the state's largest enslavers. Take in the details of rooms untouched since the 1850s, including the living quarters of the enslaved residents, the kitchen, laundry and stables.

Enjoy a group lunch at a local restaurant.

Avery Research Center for African American History and Culture. For many of its years, the Avery Normal Institute, which operated from 1865 to 1954, was the only college preparatory school open to Black students in the Charleston area. Today, the center preserves Lowcountry history and culture. Learn about the school's fascinating history and tour the Center's collections.

Sweetgrass Baskets

A BRIDGE BETWEEN CONTINENTS

Sweetgrass baskets, ubiquitous in Charleston, are a beautiful and functional contribution of South Carolina's Gullah Geechee culture. Enslaved Africans brought this artistic tradition from West Africa to South Carolina, where they discovered grasses similar to those used to make baskets in their homeland. Laboring on South Carolina's rice plantations, they drew upon their heritage to create baskets to separate grains of rice from the chaff. Today's basket weavers, descendents of enslaved artisans, are the legacy of 300 years of tradition, of calloused fingers and dexterous hands creating a link to their ancestors with each twist of a palmetto ribbon around a coil of sweetgrass.
