Utah Beach and Sainte-Mère-Église.

The Normandy coastline provided the theater for Operation Overlord, one of history's largest and most complex military operations. In the early hours of June 6, 1944, Allied paratroopers began landing inland, tasked with sealing off German access to the amphibious assault sites. By daybreak, the second phase started as Allied landing forces came ashore on five beaches codenamed Utah, Omaha, Gold, Juno and Sword. As you visit the Musée du Débarquement at Utah Beach, learn gripping details about the planning and execution of the invasion. Travel next to Sainte-Mère-Église, where U.S. paratroopers from the 82nd and 101st Airborne divisions landed chaotically amid enemy fire and later secured its strategic crossroads. 80th Anniversary of D-Day

Eighty years ago, one of the largest and most complex invasions in history unfolded along Normandy's coastline. It began on D-Day, June 6, 1944, when more than 160,000 Allied forces arrived by air and sea, landing in territory held by the Germans. Under the command of General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied troops faced fierce resistance and sustained thousands of casualties, but they succeeded in securing the beaches and later advanced inland to liberate Paris. A tactical and psychological blow to Hitler and his troops, D-Day will be remembered forever as the moment of World War II when the tide began to turn against the Nazis.
