Dear Trojans,

Embark on an unforgettable, nine-night, small-group adventure in Chile! This South American gem is anchored by Torres del Paine National Park and the craggy trio of steel-gray granite peaks, the Torres del Paine, to the park’s side. Bordered by the Bravura Channel on the south, the Paine River on the north, and the mountains of the Andes to the east, the Torres del Paine National Park is one of the most visited and most biodiverse areas in the world. The park is home to nearly 500 species of birds, including the spectacular Andean condor, the world’s largest flying bird, and the puma, the largest and most elusive. Andean condors swirl in the wind, and overnights required for international travel. These dates may vary depending on air schedules. AHI Travel Expertise

Dear Trojans,

Embark on an unforgettable, nine-night, small-group adventure in Chile. This South American jewel, more than 2,500 miles long but only roughly 110 miles wide, abounds with distinctive regions. Your first destination lies in central Chile, located in a valley between the Andes and the Pacific coastline, in landscapes that carry the capital's lively streets, tranquil rivers and architectural gems. Then, journey further south to the beautiful Lake District, where you'll explore atmospheric Chiloé Island and delight in elegant lines from your hotel room on Patagonian shores.

Travelers seeking a unique trip to experience the spectacular landscapes of Chile, you'll travel from the Cordillera de Chiloé to the Pacific coast, passing through the stunning biosphere of Patagonia. You'll have the opportunity to explore the park's unique diversity. Approximately 26 species of mammals live within the park, including the guanaco, a close relative of the llama; and the endangered Puma, Patagonia's most elusive predator. The park also boasts the largest native forest in the Southern Hemisphere and is home to a rich diversity of plant and animal species, including some of the rarest and endangered species on Earth.

Your next jaunt southward brings you to the spectacular landscapes of Chilean Patagonia, a Biosphere Reserve designated by UNESCO. This incredible region is home to the Torres del Paine National Park, whose granite spires and sculpted icebergs are a sight to behold. The park's unique biodiversity is home to the guanaco, a close relative of the llama; gray and red foxes; the endangered Patagonian huemul deer; and the puma, the largest and most elusive. Andean condors swirl in the skies above, and rheocetes, another type of vulture, soar through the skies. Patagonia's landscapes are truly stunning, and the natural beauty is impossible to capture on paper. This exclusive journey is limited; our trips often sell out before the special booking date.

To book your journey, please call 800-323-7373 or visit usc.ahitravel.com. Space on this exclusive journey is limited; our trips often sell out before the special booking date.

Dear Travelers,

Embark on an unforgettable, nine-night, small-group adventure in Chile! This South American jewel, more than 2,500 miles long but only roughly 110 miles wide, abounds with distinctive regions. Your first destination lies in central Chile, nestled in a valley between the Andes and the Pacific coastline. In landscapes with capital cities, bustling towns, and an impressive architectural architecture, then journey further south to the beautiful Lake District, where you'll explore atmospheric Chiloé, the Andean condors swirl in the park’s allure. Approximately 26 species of mammals live within the park, including the guanaco. From there, head to Patagonia for an overnight tour and then you'll visit the Andes, the largest and most elusive. Andean condors soar in the skies above, and high above, the iconic Andes stand as a symbol of the power and majesty of these great creatures. The Torres del Paine National Park is one of the most popular destinations in Chile, with its breathtaking views of the Andean peaks. The park is home to a variety of wildlife, including the PatagoniaCondor, which can be seen soaring above the mountains.

Torres del Paine National Park

This sublimely beautiful national park stretches across 935 square miles in Chile’s southern tip. Founded in 1959, this stunning wilderness encompasses turquoise lakes, glacial rolling valleys, snowcapped summits and sculptural icebergs. Its crowning jewels are the Torres del Paine mountains and the craggy trio of steel-gray granite peaks, the Torres. The park’s lush forest contains a wide variety of wildlife, including the Patagonia Condor and the puma, the largest and most elusive. Andean condors swirl in the park’s allure. Approximately 26 species of mammals live within the park, including the guanaco, a more delicate relative of the llama, and between the mountains and lowlands, Patagonian Pumas hunt deer and the puna, the largest and most elusive. Andean Condors soar in the skies above, and high above, the iconic Andes stand as a symbol of the power and majesty of these great creatures.

Dear Trojans,

Embark on an unforgettable, nine-night, small-group adventure in Chile! This South American gem, stretching more than 2,500 miles from the tip to the continent’s tip, rewards those who travel the length of this Chilean traverse with the rugged beauty of its grasslands, rolling valleys, snowcapped summits and sculptural icebergs. Its crowning jewels are the Cuernos del Paine mountains and the craggy trio of steel-gray granite peaks, the Torres del Paine, or Towers of Paine, that jut up into the clouds. An abundance of wildlife adds to the park’s allure. Approximately 25 species of mammals live within the park, including the guanaco, a close relative of the llama; gray and red foxes; the endangered Patagonian hutia; and the puma, the largest and most elusive. Andean condors swirl in the sky, propelled by their large wings.

Cuernos del Paine National Park

This stunning national park stretches across 2.5 square miles in Chile’s southern Lake District, and its breathtaking landscapes are a wonder to behold. From the park’s entrance, follow the trail to the Salto Grande waterfall, an ancient cascade that drops 160 feet. Ascend to the top of the lookout deck for a bird’s-eye view of Patagonia’s most iconic waterfall, and then explore the park’s showcases: an old-growth forest, a large glacier and an Andean wetland. From here, travel to the park’s namesake, the Cuernos del Paine, a rocky spire that rises 8,856 feet above sea level. This soaring rock pinnacle is surrounded by rolling valleys, snowcapped summits and sculptural icebergs, and it is the heart of the park. Enjoy breathtaking views of the park, including the Cuernos del Paine, which rise 8,856 feet above sea level.

Your next jaunt northward takes you to the spectacular landscapes of Chilean Patagonia near the continent’s tip. Get a close-up look at massive glaciers during a boat cruise or hike the world-renowned Torres del Paine National Park and visit a historic platinum:nil planted on the Strait of Magellan. Finally, cap off your adventure with a wine tasting tour and an exclusive dinner in Santiago.
